Ghost Patrol Special Assignment

History:

So here's the situation. We've been having trouble with this ghost quite some time. He seems to be specifically targeting our headquarters and causing all kinds of chaos. You might remember this little poltergeist from the invoice we sent you before the seminar. Well, we never actually captured him and now he has somehow managed to disrupt our containment grid and combine all the ghosts that you have captured so far into one giant glob of destructive ghost horror! We have dispatched our top agents to try and stop the glob before it destroys our HQ. We need you to take your team and try and capture this mischievous poltergeist once and for all. We are all counting on you!

Notes:

Our agents have already discovered the cause of death. He was struck by lightning, and now seems to possess a strange ability to affect electrical devices. We found him possessing a Bocce Ball coach in the area, causing him to spout nonsensical phrases to passersby.
