

July 6

Jack Rackham

Aaa, ye turtle fisted wretch! Ye may have taken the early lead in our wagers, but it seems I have caught up. We enter the final three islands on equal footing, and rest assured that I will emerge victorious!

July 6

Plunder

On arrival in harbor we will be finding much more than we expected. The wealth of the island is beyond description. We will see the masses of gold, silver, and blunderbuss, and other riches that will be found.

July 8

Caribbean Central Treasury, Jamaica

Tis a sad day in the Caribbean. 2 raids in one week? These pirates are becoming bold. Hispanola has sent over what little gold they were able to hide away from those thieving pirates- but it was only half as much as the small sum amount Cuba managed to save. Nevertheless we will ensure what little wealth our brothers have left will be well protected.

July 11

Plunder

What a miserable little island. Between Rackham and myself we were able to find just barely over half of the gold rumored to be here, and it was a paltry rumor to begin with. At least I can take some solace in the fact that I have regained the same lead over Rackham that I had after Cuba.

July 13

Caribbean Central Treasury, Jamaica

Nausea delirium qui... consent per delecta...
vulnere...
delirium...
praesto...
delirium...
delirium...
irit la plaga

July 16

Rackham

Now that's more like it! Taking such a pitiful haul back in Trinidad (my single worst of the voyage!) really got me worked up. In fact, I admit I might have been a little bit crazed- but crazy seems to be good! I looted more gold today than I have on the entire voyage so far! I'm afraid I'm now so far ahead that poor Plunder doesn't have a chance. One said to go, and victory is mine!!

July 16

Plunder

I am nothing if not consistent, apparently. Today I raided the same amount of gold for the 3rd time this journey (and back in Trinidad it was only slightly less). Rackham would seem to have the advantage going into the final raid, but I believe I have information that he is lacking. We shall see what our final encounter brings...

July 18

Caribbean Central Treasury, Jamaica

Will these raids never end? We just got news of a FOURTH raid in our waters, and our brethren in Panama were only able to save as much gold as Hispanola, despite having a larger treasury. These are hard times indeed, but at least everyone has been able to save something.

The Spanish Main

Atlantic Ocean

Cuba

Hispaniola

Caribbean Central Treasury

Jamaica

Caribbean

Trinidad

Parama

Pacific Ocean

July 21

Rackham

Curse you Plunder!! I took well over half the gold that was supposed to be in Jamaica- I should have won! How did you discover that all the other islands were shipping the gold we didn't loot to this place? And for you to win by a single coin is insufferable! I will have my revenge on you Plunder! I WILL have my revenge...

July 21

Plunder

I see the delib...
will be with...
few...
ver...
er... and...

July 21

Caribbean Central Treasury, Jamaica

We are ruined. Despite our best precautions the pirates have found us. All our gold, all the gold of our brothers is gone. The vast treasure of the Caribbean has been reduced to the mere 3 coins they overlooked in their drunken pillaging. What are we to do?